Along with a large amount of satisfied customers on Amazon.com, this GPS navigation system comes with a list of features that make it stand out from the rest. Write an informative and factual post on your blog about why taking down all the graffiti in public places is a good idea. Graffiti is everywhere these days, especially on walls throughout the United States. The graffiti ranges from tags to doodles to highly intellectual paint jobs. And, unfortunately, it seems like every time you drive through town there's something new to look at. If you're like me, you'd rather not see this kind of thing all around every day—so why is it okay? I don't know, but I'm sure there's a reason they paint it on the walls and not inside the store where people buy things... Write an informative and factual blog post titled "10 Ways to Keep in Touch with Friends in College". We've all heard the phrase, "College is the time of your life," but that has never been more true than when you're doing something wrong. You'll never make as many friends in your life as you do in college; plus, there are so many organizations and clubs for even the most obscure interests. The only downfall about making so many friends is the fact that you can't make them all at once. But, there are ways to make sure you see your friends often enough. Write an informative and factual blog post titled "10 Fan Favorite Tips for Students". Being a student can be hard sometimes. The student lifestyle isn't always easy to handle—just ask any college student who has sat through 6 hours of lecture at one time. It's stressful trying to handle all of your classes while remaining healthy enough to get exercise, socialize, and keep up with the demands of your everyday life.
